Reverse Chucking with a Trapped Reverse Chuck

Dan covered almost all the chucking methods available for bowl turning. The one that he did not cover is using a Trapped Reverse Chuck. It's a very useful method for finishing the bottom of bowls or even to securely hold a hollow form. The method uses a mounting plate attached to face plate and doughnut shaped rings that fit over the bowl or hollow form which is then bolted to the mounting plate. The picture below illustrates how it works.

A 6" face plate (heavy duty FP is best) is mounted to a 10" diameter plate. In the version I have which came from Alton Bradford, 4 3/8" diameter bolts are used to attach the doughnut ring (which is placed over the bowl) to the mounting plate. The rings I have for the 10" mounting plate have hole diameters ranging from 3" to 6.5". For even larger bowls or hollow forms I bolt a larger plate (17" diameter) to the mounting plate which allows me to mount much larger pieces as shown below.

Note that not only do you need doughnut rings of appropriate diameter, but you need bolts of the appropriate length with heads on the outboard / working end for safety. The picture below shows the variety of parts I have for my setup. I have found this to be a very robust method of reverse mounting anything as long as the base is smaller diameter than the point of mounting. If the base is larger diameter than the mounting point, two u-shaped rings could be used to form the doughnut if desired.

President's Corner

First, I'd like to apologize to those that attended the July meeting via Zoom. We had a number of 'technical difficulties' which included losing the Zoom link. It did not get reconnected, which resulted in us not recording the excellent presentations by Dan and Ray. We are working to improve our AV setup. I cannot guarantee this will never happen again, but we're trying.

Now on to the meeting! Although I did not get to listen to Scott Synott's Turners Talk, I saw a group of people at the lathe with Scott, so I think it went well and number of early attendees was very good. Thank you, Scott!

We also had an excellent collection of S&T items. Maybe the hot weather is keeping us home and indoors allowing more lathe time. Whatever the reason, I hope we can keep it up! And don't forget to enter a few in the State Fair of Virginia turning competition.

I think we know how to get a full house, in person turnout for our meetings! We just need our lifetime members, Dan and Ray, as our demonstrators! This was a pre-pandemic turnout. The demonstrations were outstanding. I hope others enjoyed it as much as I did. I've been practicing some of the gouge techniques they showed us; still have a long way to go but getting a little better.

We've got more in-house demonstrations coming up. I hope the turnout is as good!

Thanks for listening.....and keep turning!

- 5 An analysis of the Richmond Woodturners Club's income and expenses for the 12 months ending June 30, 2023 indicates that, from a cash flow perspective, the club did very well during the period with income exceeding expenses by $3,569.46. Total income for the period was $6,046.43 while total expenses were $2,476.97. This level of expense represents recurring on-going costs typically incurred by the club since there were no extraordinary costs incurred during the period. The excess income was added to the club's reserves which is available for unexpected costs, unexpected membership loss, and upgrading or replacing the club's equipment (lathes, tools, and audio visual equipment). It should be noted that a significant portion of the club's income was associated with fundraising activities like the garage sale and donations from members. Income from membership dues roughly equaled on-going expenses. A more detailed breakdown of the club's income and expenses is included

Turner's Talk

Mentoring & Skills Development Workshop

The workshop meets prior to our regular Thursday meeting at 5:30 PM at Woodcraft and have a time to talk turning. Come on in and let's talk shop. This month Ray Deyo will discuss care and maintenance of a lathe.

Look for more demonstrations and discussions coming in future months. Stay turned.

Woodcraft Guidelines for our Meetings

Woodcraft graciously provides a space for the club to meet. The store closes at 7:00 PM and they have an employee stay until our meeting ends. They have requested that we:

- 1- Do not wander around the store after they close. Do all your purchases prior to the 7:00 PM closing time.
- 2- Stay in the meeting area until the meeting is over and we are ready to leave. If you do have to leave prior to the end of the meeting, please arrange that with the Woodcraft representative ahead of time.
- 3- That we all leave at the same time, taking all visiting outside the store, so the representative can lock up and leave.

Future Demonstrations

September – More shop tours may be in the offing. I hear they may be Ray Deyo's and Stan VanDruff's shops.

October – Demonstration of spindle gouge. More details to follow

July Program Review

Dan Luttrell and Ray Deyo discussed different bowl gouge grinds; Dan, the Ellsworth grind and Ray discussed the fingernail grind. Each of them explained what made the grind unique and advantages and disadvantages of each. They both explained how to approach the grinder to obtain the desired grind. Very informative! Thanks guys.

AUGUST SHOW AND TELL

Another basket illusion technique bowl. Instead of a regular geometric pattern, I created a “find the path” puzzle bowl. Find your way from the outer ring down to the smallest ring near the center of the bowl. Don’t think I’ll do that again!

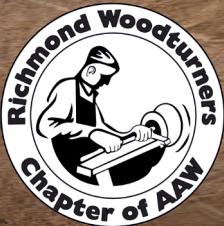

Two Sierra pens. Blanks made with colored bits of foil cast in resin. I sprayed glue on tubes then rolled in foil.

White Oak burl hollow form, 5" diameter x 6 " tall (not including the finial). Finish is pure linseed oil. Small piece of a very large burl that came from a neighbor's back yard. It turned pretty easily. Probably because it was very wet. It had an extended neck until I cracked it while hollowing. That's why I added a finial.

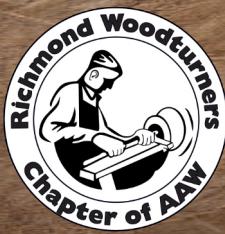

Cherry bowl from piece of crotch wood from Katherine's tree. 17" diameter x 4" tall. Finish is linseed oil. I might polish and wax later but it looks good right now with just the oil. It warped quite a bit after turning. I removed some of the high parts from the top edge but did not try to make it flat.

Magnolia bowl, 10.5" diameter x 7" tall. Finish is walnut oil. I made this as a salad bowl although my wife thinks it's too small. I turned and finished this in one day which is unusual for me. The log has been under my deck slowly drying for about 4 years.

Moisture content was low teens when I started and probably 10-12% when I put linseed oil on it. Pith shows on top edge with some cracks around it. If it cracks too much, I may add some pewas as repairs.

Oak, about 8" wide and 6" high, with the pith running horizontally thru the middle. It has a couple coats of Danish Oil on it, but is getting rougher as it dries. It needs to be buffed, but I'm waiting for it to dry a bit more. Also hoping the cracks around the pith will close up a little more as it dries.
