

Richmond Woodturners

Newsletter September 2020

Richmond Woodturners is an AAW sponsored 501(c)3 chapter qualified to receive tax deductible bequests, devises, transfers or gifts per IRS Sections 2055, 2016 or 2522. Donors can deduct contributions made to Richmond Woodturners under IRS Section 170.

The August meeting started with a welcome to all with a brief introduction to all logged into Zoom (35 at the time I counted). Old and New business was covered followed by a display of the photos of the Show and Tell works that were turned in.

Frank Penta followed with demonstrated live from Raleigh, NC. He demonstrated how he incorporates off center turning into the base of a platter for decoration and embellishment as well as for a solid footing. During the demo, Frank showed several samples of his work, including glue-ups, how to cut and form the glued-up pieces. He also showed how he sharpens tools and how to handle the tools while turning. Finally, Frank displayed several small turnings that (like bottle stoppers) that were turned off-center by simply pushing the work off-center just before tightening the scroll chuck. He closed the demo with a discussion and question and answer period.

President's Message

I for one thoroughly enjoyed our demo last month by Frank Penta. Thank you Dave for setting that up. I know that a few of us have since then taken advantage of one or more of his live virtual demos. Personally, I needed that kick to spice up pieces with laminations beyond the simple brown bowl. Frank Penta is well worth following if his style interests you.

Well folks, September is here and just about time for that cooler fall weather that some of us so much enjoy. With that, our November elections for 2021 are right around the corner and at stake is your club's future. Let's not let this Covid situation be the critical illness that sucks the life out of Richmond Woodturners. We're better than that. The ban on large group meetings has created an anxious environment where all we've had to do for the last five months to be a member of RWT is to sit at home in the comfort of our favorite chairs and tune into Zoom meetings. This is not the environment that is good preparation for a request to participate from members. My most humble apologies if this is a bit blunt, but we have to have a higher level of member support / participation in order to keep Richmond Woodturners going in the future. And that future is here and now.

Perhaps this list is elsewhere in this newsletter. We have six key positions to fill from nearly 100 members on the books:

President: - Open

Secretary: have 1 Candidate

Info/ Web Director : have 1 Candidate

Activities Director: Open

Newsletter Editor: Open

Past President: have 1 Candidate

If you are even the slightest bit interested in becoming more involved with club operations, please let me or any other board member know of your interest. This invitation is open to members who might be serving for the first time, as well as former board members. One does not have to have moved thru the ranks before taking on a key position. It only takes the willingness to serve and a bit of dedication a few hours per month. Richmond Woodturners means a lot to me. Having only been in the club a few years myself, I have had plenty of RWT enabled memorable turning experiences, too many to list here. I'm sure many of you have had many similar experiences and a rewarding history with RWT, and similar feelings about wanting Richmond Woodturners to thrive and continue. This is an opportunity for RWT to thrive, grow, and emerge from the pandemic with even more to offer to present and future members. For those club members who have not yet taken the opportunity to take part in our live remote meetings, I strongly encourage you to do so. We look forward this month to hearing from Chuck Horton discussing his coring system and his video setup for this live remote demonstration.

I was strolling around an outdoor event a few weeks back that included a booth featuring wood turnings on display. Like a magnet, I was pulled to it as you might imagine, and near enough to notice someone who looked like he might have some experience pick up a piece from the table. As he looked at it, he said rather loudly, "I don't like this. The form is all wrong, too thick, proportions all wrong", etc., and set it back down and walked away. Just a few minutes later I noticed a woman pick up that very same bowl. She turned to her companion and commented, "Isn't this the prettiest thing we've seen all day? I just love it'. I don't know if she bought it, but the two varied reactions to that bowl prove that beauty is in the eye of the beholder. Art is not limited to color, shape, the golden mean, or Greek proportions. If you made it, and like it, whether you keep it, give it away or sell it, whoever has it will enjoy too. Enjoy and be creative.

The Challenge - Make a pair of holders in style of Rude Osolnik. Simple lines, yet elegant and subtle

David Bushman

Bruce Robbins , Cherry; Candles Mahogany

Dan Luttrell

Steve Kellner, One Rudi style and 3 what I'm calling Rudi with a twist. All are sycamore with tung oil finish. Size is 3"dia x 12", 9" and 6" (twisted) and 12" (Rudi) heights. Blanks were all 2" longer than finished candlesticks and twisted axis were off-set 1" from center and turned at 120 deg twist. Bill said we should show our mistakes. In this case, I snapped the standard Rudi but was able to bore holes in each piece (had tenons on both ends), insert a dowel, and then re-turn final shape.

Steve Schwartz

744 Charapilla Cave art bowl

Attached are the 744 Charapilla and 4 detail views of another in my series of Neanderthal art taken from caves in Spain. Each of the different animals are textured with a different pattern using pyrography. The figures are cut out of an adhesive stencils, textured then airbrushed with black India ink to sharpen them up to the edged of the stencil. I finished with a little gold rubbing compound to give them an antiqued look. The wood is Charapilla which goes by at least 3 other names and is extremely dense and brittle. The finished piece looks very much like Mahogany but heavier.

Lathe, Tools, and Accessories Sale List #1

Subject: Richmond Woodturners For Sale Item

Date: Tue, 1 Sep 2020 01:37:58 -0400

From: R. Androse Glover androsegphoto@gmail.com

I recently acquired a large number of woodworking tools from my deceased grandfather. Most of them I won't use so I'm looking to sell those in order to hopefully buy a nice used lathe. What I'm getting rid of includes a scroll saw, plainer, joiner, jet standup dust collector on wheels, motorcycle/ATV jack, Ryobi compound miter saw, and I'm sure there will be more as I continue to clean out and organize. I've already placed ads for several items on FaceBook Marketplace but, with my end goal of a used lathe, I figured you might be able to help me sell what I've got.

As for the lathe I'm looking for something 36" long but it doesn't need a deep sweep. I work mostly spindles and want to do canes. Electronic variable speed is ideal. My current lathe uses a belt and changing speed means coming to a complete stop each time. Legs or a stand preferred but I can make due without. I figure something new like I'm looking for would be $2-3k, but I'd like to stay under half that if possible.

I know I'm throwing a lot at you, but I sincerely hope you can help. Thanks

Lathe, Tools, and Accessories Sale List #2

My wood turning activities have come to the end of the road. All the various joints in my body protest to some extent when I stand at the lathe for any extended period. So I am selling all of my equipment, tools, and accessories. I am not sure which the club prefers to get this list of equipment to all members, publishing in the newsletter, or sending as a separate email to members. Possibly a reference in the newsletter to a separate email being sent. Thank you,
