Multi-Axis Turning / Split Turning

Barbara Dill did another great demo on Multi-axis turning. The handout of results based on the axis used was great. Should save the rest of us times and possible multi-axis firewood. She reminds us the number the axis and record which one you used just in case you want to repeat the turning. By leaving the "let see what happens" mode and entering the theory of multi-axis turning, Barbara can now design something & have it look like she envisioned. 1) Turn a spindle with your "happy" tool and make a "V", bead or cove. 2) Mark ends of the spindle, leave wood at each end (more weight is needed at the bottom for candlesticks). For parallel turning, increase the speed. 3) Mark sections to turn; move to other parallel axes. [Continued on page 2]

June 13-14, 2014: AAW Symposium, Phoenix, AZ

Shows Coming In VA:

April 26: RW Turning Competition, Woodcraft.

May 2-3: MidAtlantic Pen-turners Gathering. Woodcraft.

Sept 13 & 14: Va Woodturners Symposium, Fishersville

Penturner met on the 2nd Thursday of the month. Part 1 of converting a Pentel pencil by replacing the body with a homemade one. New member Michael Homes. Mid-Atlantic Penturners Gathering is free. www.midatlanticpen.com

Next meeting is in May.

Club Dues Are Need From All

Barbara used brass plumber caps, heats it up & pounds them into shape for the candle holders.

For split turnings Barba used hot glue & strapping tape to hole them together during turning. Reverse the pieces, glue them together then finish turning.
