Turners Partying @ Christmas Party

Once again we had a successful party with plenty of food (except ham biscuits, they went fast). Lots of members, new, old and spouses, came out for the fun. The gift swap was bigger this year so it seems to be catching on. Officers were reelected for another year. Thank to all for a great year.

Pen Turners Richmond Penturners met Thursday January 9 for an all about fountain pens meeting. We started with a few stories about first recollections. Ed Wood described his connection which began in the sixth grade. Meg Turner recalled how she won her first fountain pen in a family contest by getting the highest average in school. A new member talked of a 17,000 Euro Mont Blanc pen she saw while travelling Europe. After a show and tell of vintage, modern and handmade pens that some brought along we showed a few videos on handwriting and identifying the parts of a fountain pen. We learned of the many reasons why people use fountain pens which include varying line width, selection of inks and a host of more emotional reasons. One comment suggested that you could get more feel of what the writer was going through when writing. If their thinking is slow and deliberate, you can see the ink starting to flow again after a long pause. When someone is writing quickly, you can almost trace the passion by the pen's stroke. Next on the list was a discussion of filling systems which included everything from lever fills, cartridges, screw convertors, piston convertors, eye droppers, bulb fillers and many more. Lastly we talked about nibs. Fountain pen nibs come in many variations of width from extra fine to extra broad, different materials (mostly steel or gold), different sizes and different shapes. We all got to write with a few different types to see the effects of flex on variable line width as well as how it feels to write on different grades of paper. Finally everyone got a chance to practice changing out a nib if they wanted to upgrade from a kit nib. Last on the agenda was nib alignment and smoothing or how to take a scratchy writing pen into one that writes buttery smooth. Next Meeting March 13 – Converting a Pentel Pencil by replacing the body with a homemade one Mid Atlantic Penturners Gathering at Woodcraft May 2-3 – See www.midatlanticpen.com for more info and registration , Free.
